Lessons on Living with Morrie Schwartz.

“What can this old guy tell me that’s going to help me when I get to a similar point?” Renowned journalist Ted Koppel put that question to Morrie Schwartz during an interview conducted before the popular Brandeis sociology professor died of ALS (Lou Gehrig’s Disease). Koppel’s interviews with Morrie, conducted during the last year of his life, are among the most requested and widely discussed Nightline series of the last 25 years.
